

BIOGRAPHY

Craig G. Miller

General Counsel

Mr. Craig G. Miller, a member of the Senior Executive Service (SES), is the General Counsel for the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA). As the chief legal officer and counselor to the director, he provides legal advice on all aspects of agency operations.

Mr. Miller retired as a Colonel in the U.S. Air Force in 2015 after almost 27 years on active duty as an Air Force judge advocate. Among his positions in the Air Force JAG Corps, he served as Senior Military Assistant to the Department of Defense General Counsel, as Director of Air Force Operations and International Law Directorate on Air Staff, and as a Staff Judge Advocate three times including at the Ogden Air Logistics Center, Hill Air Force Base, Utah (Air Force Material Command); the 21st Space Wing, Peterson Air Force Base, Colorado (Air Force Space Command); and the 497th Combat Training Squadron, Paya Lebar Air Base, Singapore (Pacific Air Forces). He also served as Chief of the Operations Law Branch in HQ USAF, focusing on matters such as the Law of Armed Conflict, contractors on the battlefield, and detainees issues.

Earlier in his Air Force career he served at the wing level at Pease Air Force Base, New Hampshire, as Circuit Trial Council in the Eastern Judicial Circuit, as a Medical Law Consultant at Wilford Hall Medical Center, Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, and in the General Law Division, HQ Air Force Materiel Command, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

Mr. Miller earned a Master of Laws in International and Comparative Law from George Washington University School of Law, a Juris Doctorate from Mississippi College School of Law, and a Bachelor of Arts in History and a Master of Science in Educational Administration from Bob Jones University. He is a member of the District of Columbia and State of Mississippi Bars.

UNCLASSIFIED

Distribution Statement A - Approved for public release; distribution is unlimited

